Need a break?

We're off to Berlin on Saturday 16 May for 3 nights for a bit of culture.

If you are looking for an excuse to travel and want to be assured of a little company when and when you want it, join Kathi and discover Berlin.

Staying in the atmospheric former East Berlin – where the city of old Berlin originated we will be ideally situated for sightseeing and close to the U for access to the whole city.

The 3* Agon Frankfurter Allee Hotel will be our base and they include a hot buffet breakfast in their rates, which should keep us going all day. For full details contact kathi@traveltimes.co.uk

On the Piste in Les Gets

–report by Nick Philpott

The holiday lived up to the usual high standard of "Hirst Tours" by Travel Time. The Chalet Monet was modern and comfortable, the bedrooms "bijou and compact". The hot tub proved to be very popular. The food was excellent and there was no shortage of wine, which was just as well, as some the beers in the much frequented Pub d'Irlande were eye-wateringly expensive. A round would cost as much as the gross domestic product of a small country.

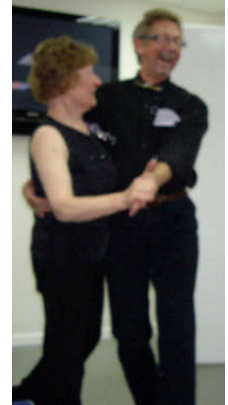

The area around Les Gets offers a rich variety of skiing. The snow was very good this year, and we managed to tour most of the extensive runs, and to be honest, a number of different hostelries.

Now he is 80 –

Some bright spark once said, when asked about the North-South divide, that it would be fine, as long as it was properly policed. In spite of that, our old chum Walter from Blackpool, was able to join us. As usual, he kept us all entertained with his hilarious tales of the wild north-west, but what is more remarkable was that he celebrated his 80th birthday on the slopes, and showing no signs of slowing down.

Strictly Les Gets

One, if not the, highlights of the week was the Strictly Come Dancing evening.

With the benefit of expert tuition from Rowland and Debbie, the contestants worked and practiced hard.

The event itself was compered by Kathi (move over Bruce Forsyth).

After a tense knock out round, the competition was won by..... Mike and Anthea.

To the victors the champagne, to the runners up, the consolation of a tub of yoghurt-- never let it be said that they have no sense of humour at Traveltime.

And suddenly, it was all over. A week had flashed by, and it was time to go home. Ah well, here's to next time.
